Supporting universal health coverage--by better linking sexual and reproductive health rights with HIV

OPERATIONALIZING THE 2018 CALL TO ACTION ON LINKING SRHR/HIV BRINGS THESE RESULTS:

1. Reduced HIV infections, and reduced HIV-related morbidity and mortality:
   --through increased coverage of HIV prevention, testing, and treatment services, delivered within sexual and reproductive health (SRH) and broader primary health care settings.

2. Better health outcomes:
   --through increased access to SRH services for people living with and vulnerable to HIV especially key populations and at-risk populations, including migrants

3. Identification of promising and good practices for linking services including identifying barriers, challenges and solutions for optimal delivery of linked programmes.
